NEW MAGAZINE MAKES ITS BOW TO THE PUBLIC

A new magazine, "Western Canada Outdoors," has made its bow to the public, the first issue appearing this month.

The publication is devoted primarily to conservation of game and is edited by Colin Groff, a newspaper man with wide knowledge of the important chosen field. For several years and until recently he was publicity agent for the government of Alberta.

Typographically and because of the high quality of its articles and illustrations the first number is a credit to its producers. That there is a place for a new magazine among those interested in outdoor activities is evident.

"The magazine will be what it name implies, a publication devoted to outdoor life and activities, featuring the news and views of the fish and game leaders of the west, and supporting the cause of reasonable and proper conservation of our wild life.

It is to be hoped that the new magazine, which is the mouthpiece of the various fish and game organizations in the province, will immediately urge for the adoption of the regular trap line system for which regular trappers in the province have been contending for many years as a means of protecting the fur-bearing animals of the province.

"Western Canada Outdoors," which is published in the Capital City, should reflect the interest of those who believe in conservation of our wild life, which once destroyed can never be replaced.

A one-year subscription to the magazine costs only one dollar a year. The Tribune will gladly take subscriptions to "Western Canada Outdoors" and send them along to the publishers.

THERE MAY BE SOMETHING IN IT

The other day I met a friend whom by the way, detests publicity and as I am anxious to retain his friendship I refrained from giving him my name.

My friend said me the following: "Look here, Scribe, the press of this Peace River is all wrong. In fact we are all wrong. As the broadside rather than me put out of the turnpike circle, I asked my friend to explain, which he did in part as follows:

"It's like this. The press of this country is all wrong about the construction of the Coast Outfit for sure. Not only that, but the people have been clamoring for it. Other developments are now coming out for which the people of this country cannot do for themselves."

"We have been praying to the federal government for a long time for this and that and that, and what have we got?" Nothing.

"Now what I started out to say is this. Let's leave off politics for a moment. I would make it a criminal offense for anyone to even mention the coast outfit or highway. Should a man come in and start talking about Poultry Services, Live Stock Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, this great inland empire. This should be our policy from now on."

I admitted I could not quite get his point of view.

"You see," observed my friend, "Well allow me to elucidate: We have been making a continuous roar up this country for the last few years and all of us of it. Can you imagine what effect it would produce if we all once became silent and remained so? The people would wonder what had meditatively become alarmed. They could reason that dire things were about to happen in this long-ignored region. They might even imagine that there was a secession movement on foot. The very silence would set their teeth and they would naturally be compelled to investigate and fall over one another to do something for the community."

"Now, Scribe, can't you see the effect of such a policy? Can't you see the psychology that such a policy would bring about? It would quieten the seats of the mighty."

"In a word, let us thumb our noses to the outside world and carry on as we did before. There was nothing else, because there was anything that even looked like a road."

Concluding, my old friend, who stuck to an earnestness that greatly affected me observed: "Let us leave off this agitation for development. The people require instant assistance and guidance. The policy of silence which our experience has taught usually precedes a storm. The government will get what we want—Coast Outfit and all the rest of it—without figuratively speaking, firing a shot."

This part of my friend's talk I think this over. Scribe. Just think it over."

After a short time of thoughtfully digesting my friend's proposed tactic I said to myself: "By Jove, there may be something in his suggestions."

"AN OFT REPEATED QUESTION"

Grande Prairie, Alta., Feb. 18, 1936.

To the editor of The Tribune:

According to the Act there was no requirement that the Board of Education should cease to be an obligation to the district to finance. This finds in some cases that pupils were to be educated at the expense of the district and over, at the expense of the district, and in many cases still in grades four to six.

The amendment to the School Act for 1936 reads in part:

Section 202 Amended (striking out subsection 40):

(9) The liability of a Board of Education to another Board of Education, except an amalgamated board, with instruction in Grades IX, X, XI shall cease upon the expiration of the fourth year during which the pupil has been furnished with such instruction, and thereafter any fees payable in respect of that pupil shall be paid by the Board of Education previously specified by Sub-Section (3) hereof and shall be paid by the parent or guardian of the pupil.

The case may be at the rates prescribed by Sub-Sections (3) and (4).

(11) In any case in which the payment to another Board of Education, except an amalgamated board, with instruction in Grades IX, X, XI for five years, or in the case he has been receiving instruction in Grades IX, X, XI for five years, the Board of that district, or the parent or guardian fees for instruction furnished to the pupil in any of the said grades after the completion of the fifth year, shall be paid by the Board of Education, except as the case may be at the rates prescribed by Sub-Sections (3) and (4).

In any case in which the pupil has been receiving instruction at a school in the district in which the pupil resides, in Grades IX, X, XI for four years, or in the case he has been receiving instruction in Grades IX, X, XI for five years, the Board of that district, or the parent or guardian fees for instruction furnished to the pupil in any of the said grades after the completion of the fifth year, shall be paid by the Board of Education, except as the case may be at the rates prescribed by Sub-Sections (3) and (4).

(11) In any case in which the Board of one district furnishes partial tuition in Grades XI, XII to a pupil whose parents or guardians reside in another district, the Board Inspector of Schools shall have the power to fix the amount chargeable to the Board of Education for the first portion of the sum so chargeable which is payable to the Board of Education, and the parent or guardian respectively.

This should put all doubts at rest, and satisfy any inquirers.

Yours sincerely,

Timely Hints From the Beaverlodge Sub-Station

It is a pleasure as well as a duty to serve.

The tiny windmill turns its tilted vanes in voice protest as the winter winds blow. In cold, in storm, it fills the brimming tanks. The busy choroman proffers his thanks.

Weather forecast, almost any day! Fair and decidedly cold today and "so."

Snow is a great insulator. How deep would the ground frost be by this time had there been no snow? Ask water engineers.

A thermometer is very useful in a cellar. A pot of water set in the coldest spot is our next best. A volume of water is an ameliorant if frost actually occurs.

The morning of February 7 brought an official minimum of 47.5° F. Fahrenheit. The sun was still in the slouch half a mile east. On the 13th, the respective readings were 30° and 32°.

The things to watch is overheat. Gas tank charges such as interest rentals and service charges—which go up relentlessly year in and year out—when the weather is bad. In 1935, a thermometer is very useful in a cellar. A pot of water set in the coldest spot is our next best. A volume of water is an ameliorant if frost actually occurs.

Assuming one of the buying American partners is bound to send us exchange to the editorial office, each copy rolled up to about the diameter of a pencil. It is the January 18 number of the "Farmers' Journal," which we are indebted to J. A. Welecker,活力的家。It covers a wide range of production, including the price of bacon, according to check erosion and mentioning the increasing interest in Tamworth hogs, which, though not yet numerous in Hawaii, are the most popular there. Better a higher first cost than an ensuing fixed charge afterwards.

In cattle feeding experiments at the University of Alberta in 1934-1935, it was found that calves fed on minerals made 12% more rapid gains than those receiving no mineral supplement. Each pair of calves received 1.8 pounds of hay and 8.5 pounds of grain. In this experiment ground limestone was worth $7.88 per head, while a salted mineral feed was worth an average profit of $12.72 per head; those not fed mineral $8.88 per head. Part of the profit lay in the extra financial return from the higher prices obtained for the carcasses.

Ground limestone unexpectedly proved more economical in this particular instance than mineral feed. It is to be expected that results of feeding mineral supplements would be the same in all seasons and in all localities. There is still a good room for much further investigation along the line of supplemental feeding of cattle. The economy of mineral supplements has not been well established. We feed them regularly to our swine and they are winter survivors, given a small allowance of bone meal to fatten on.

February has been a testing time for collars. Traces of bone frost showed in our own two until the snow that covered the surface of the earth was piled outside in crucial places. After that the barn-cold temperature rose gradually from 33 up to 34 degrees and better.

The contained water reservoir probably assists in keeping it steady. Though this collar was built up above ground and remained so until last summer, its temperature held evenly at 34-35 degrees throughout the winter, with the exception of the period when insulation had been applied to the exposed walls had been studied and that during mid-winter the exposed walls had been heated next to the barn floor. During the present winter the deeper earth banking provided last summer was offset by the chilling effect of an additional layer of snow. Had this not been well stuffed and covered when the cold snap set in trouble might have occurred. Some one needs to be on the job around a farm.

PARASITIC CONTROL OF INSECT PESTS

It will soon again be time to treat the cattle for warbles. Canadian Growers and the Regina Stock are distributors for a Derris-powder preparation which when simply mixed with water is ready to use. The powder comes in packages of 100 grams each. It must be well worked with a sponge, cloth or brushy brush. A large horn, deer or moose antler is excellent. Three to four applications are called for, the first when a fair number of warbles are visible. The second application is to lay eggs during the ensuing summer causing the cattle to eat and abate the tics, with consequent loss of clean and healthy hair. The third application is to lay eggs during the end of March. By destroying warbles the treatment reduces the amount of waste and the cost of raising cattle.

Parasites like most other insects, have four main stages of development—the egg, the larva or growing stage, the pupa or resting stage and the adult which lays the egg for the next generation.

Some kinds of parasites are called parasites. They are absolutely harmless to man and animals and are an important factor in the control of insects and the most valuable weapons man can use in his war against important insect pests.

Interesting News From Sexsmith

Hold Skating Party Despite Rampage Of Weatherman

The Young People's Society held their regular meeting on Monday evening last. This being in the nature of a social gathering, the members arranged a skating party and, notwithstanding that the weather man is still on the rampage, had turned out a large slice of sub-zero weather.

After skating a few times, to show that they were not afraid, the game was worked up, and the crowd journeyed to Mr. and Mrs. Cal's Coffee Shop, where "To Hoot and Howst" served up a right good hot lunch, which went to the desired spot.

Our genial banjo player gave several numbers and Black Jack was rendered by all with much feeling and close harmony.

A vote of thanks was extended to all the hardy and intrepid audience journeyers home weary but at peace with the world.

The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, at which will be a literary one.

W. I.'s Big Winter Carnival Set For February 28-29

Do not forget Friday and Saturday, February 28 and 29. These are the days when the Women's Institute of Sexsmith will be holding their Winter Carnival and Dance. The dance will be on Saturday night, the 28th.

At the rink on Saturday there will be all kinds of winter sports, such as ice-hockey matches, etc., and a large and well supplied hot-dog stand which we doubt will be kept open.

We understand that the ladies of this society are going to considerable pains to make this a grand carnival event, and you simply cannot afford to miss it.

LIVE CHOIR ORGANIZATION PUTS ON TURKEY DINNER

The annex of the United Church was the scene of a merry party on Wednesday evening, February 12, when those who contributed to the program of the church school and their husbands and wives sat down to a turkey dinner. Mr. Wm. May provided the piece de resistance, and the ladies assisted in the "fixins." Mrs. A. Wilson and Mrs. Shaw of the Ladies' Aid served the guests and managed the kitchen.

During the dinner meeting of the choir was called, at which it was decided to buy music and hymn books with the $25.

Some new members to the organization were welcomed and the announcement made that a new platform is to be built.

This is a live organization whose aim is to contribute as much as possible to the church services and to open the doors of its meetings to those who like music. A cordial invitation is extended to all those who like to sing to join in the work and fun.

GIVEN FAREWELL PARTY

On Friday evening, February 5, a number of members of the United Church choir gathered to wish good speed to Mr. and Mrs. Vant who was leaving for a vacation of some weeks. Guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Calverly. After their refreshments were served, Mrs. Vant presented Mr. Vant with a small gift and an address, bearing the names of the choir members. In appreciation of his gift, Mr. Vant presented Mrs. Vant with a small number and his kiss will be felt very much.

SEXSMITH VICTORIOUS AT GRANDE PRAIRIE

The Sexsmith seascots went to Grande Prairie last Friday night by sleigh, which was not the most comfortable way to travel to the competition with the Grande Prairie team, and came home with the long end of the score, although not so very long as was scored for Sexsmith well into the third period. Mansary doing the trick. The crowd was small, no doubt owing to the extremely cold weather.

As soon as this atrocious weather made its appearance, we expect to have the Croken Cup. We do not think that any particular date has been set as yet.

LADIES' GYM CLASS OPENS

The ladies' gymnasium class opened last week under the direction of Mr. Gilpin. The next day we noticed some of the ladies walking with a slight limp, which we attributed to too much exercise taken at one time.

EAST END NEWS

A GOOD PERCENTAGE

FIVE MILE CHECK, Feb. 11.—The splendid record of attendance and punctuality at the opening session of the Five Mile Creek school for the two months of 1935 was surpassed during January of this year. In line with the record set by their teacher, Miss Gertrude Brightwell, the following scholars were the recipients of a prize for punctuality and a postcard for good attendance—John Edward, Victor and Bobby Kemp, Martin Balnes, Bert and Robin Blimke, Connie, Ronal, Billie, William, Simon, Herman, Sawtell. There are about 25 in the junior room register. This is certainly a good percentage.

Mr. J. R. Evans came home from the MacLeod Hospital on Saturday, February 1. He is feeling very weak, but we are glad to see him almost us once more.

CHURCH SERVICE

FIVE MILE CHECK, Feb. 18.—Although the thermometer registered 40° below zero early Sunday morning, Rev. C. W. Huston, B.A., and his son, Jack, to conduct the service at Five Mile Creek schoolhouse, and was very pleased to see those who attended.

Rev. Mr. Huston, pastor of St. Mark's Gospel, verses 19 to 35. Mr. Fisher spoke of the characters of the people he had seen there, some hearty, some lethargic, one was insipid, another even betrayed Him, but the Master saw some good in them all.

Mr. Huston said that if we all pull together we can obtain an objective. Quoting the 25th verse: "And if a house be divided against itself that house cannot stand." We must all work together so that to succeed we must be of one mind, one heart, and one purpose. Unity is strength.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Miss Patricia Marle, who had been in the Grande Prairie Municipal Hospital for a short time, returned home on Saturday evening, having been back again at school Monday morning.

Mr. J. R. Evans has been at the hospital a couple of times to have the cast removed from his leg, but up to the present the leg is not ready.

We are pleased to note that Miss Colleen Tinsleyton is again going to school. Although not a hospital patient, Colleen had a very badly burned leg which kept her home.

VALENTINE PARTY

Friday afternoon, February 14, saw quite a social gathering in the junior room at Five Mile Creek school. It took the form of a series of small discourses and in addition each child had a gift, after which a short program, which was very amusing. Miss Clive Evans, was the postmistress, and Master Ronald Sims the postmaster for the day. The entertainment of the evening was spent playing cards.

It was very nice to see that Mr. Pirnat, who had taught the junior room in his first year at Five Mile Creek, was not forgotten by his old pupils. He was the recipient of quite a few valentines this year.

NEW SEC.-TREAS. OF BOARD

Mr. Joseph Tessington, the newly elected trustee on the school board, has accepted this position of secretary-treasurer, vacated by Mr. Wm. Hardin.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sullivan and family, who have moved into the J.W. Sawyer place, are moving shortly to Lethbridge and we understand they will be managing Mr. Frank Donald's farm there.

Several families are at present kept to their homes with influenza, and this is breaking the usual attendance record of quite a number of scholars.

COLD SNAP

In spite of the very cold weather Five Mile Creek school has been kept open, although on several occasions the attendance has been lower than 20 per cent. On Friday, February 7, with the thermometer at 40° below zero, only five scholars turned up in the junior room, and Mr. Pirnat of the senior room was a teacher without a pupil.

The teachers are kept busy these days rendering first aid, several of them coming from a long distance having had badly frozen noses and cheeks.

WHIST DRIVE AND DANCE

Although the weather may be cold, a good attendance is looked for on Friday night—so rally up, folks. Mr. Pirnat promises to have the heater going good and strong if necessary. This is the first event of the newly appointed entertainment committee.

ORCHESTRA WILL MAKE DEBUT

The new formed musical organization under the leadership of Mr. Bruce Grainger is going strong and we understand that they will make their debut at the coming spring concert to be put on Friday, March 6.

LIBRARY GROWING

Quite a number of books are already on the shelves of the library at the schoolhouse. Donations of clean, helpful books will be welcome.

MISHAP TO IMPERIAL CROWN

Here is a new picture of the Imperial Crown, which reposed on the casket of King George during its journeys through London to Westminster Hall and then to Windsor. During the slow procession to Westminster Hall the gold cross on the top of the crown became loosened. The bearers of the carriage bearing the casket and the cross fell on the velvet cushion on which the crown reposed and it was hastily replaced when the procession reached Westminster Hall.

It was reported they retreated into Mongolian territory after several engagements with the Chinese, which is claimed by both Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia.

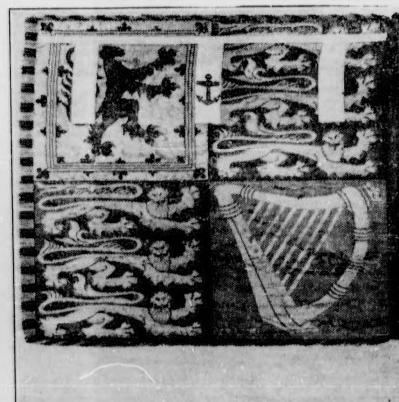

HEIR TO THE BRITISH THRONE MAN OF MANY PARTS

Now that a new king helps to govern the destinies of the British Empire, the eyes of the world naturally turn to the heir to the throne, a man who, though young, is no unknown quantity. Bright and suave on the Duke of York's shoulders are the burden of state which his brother, King Edward VIII, shouldered before the death of his beloved father. He is ably equipped for his exacting task and the British people are very confident in his abilities. Educated by private tutors, and a student at Osborne and Dartmouth Naval Colleges, the Duke of York is considered to be among the sons of the Royal Family. At the top is a shot of his nephew, Prince Charles, who is now King of the British Isles. Very few people know that a few years ago he starred on the "Old Century" court at Wembley and played in the All-England Lawn Tennis Championships, which alone is proof that his knowledge of the game is very advanced. At the top, right, is shown His Royal Highness as he walked on the centre court for his match. Like his brother the King, the Duke is a good golfer, and also loves to ride horses to meet and races. He is a keen student of outdoor exercise and in the lower right picture he is shown as his boys camp taking movie pictures of the boys at play. Lower left shows the Duke of York when on a safari in East Africa with Captain Ayres, a record of his fondness for shooting.

SHAW IN MIAMI

Something different in the way of yachting costumes was worn by George Shaw, English actor and playwright, when he visited Miami on a vacation cruise, making the headlines by advising the United States to throw out the constitution.

THE STANDARD OF THE HEIR PRESUMPTIVE

Nest to His Majesty King Edward VIII, the Duke of York is the most important man in the British Empire, as he is the heir presumptive. Here is the Duke of York's Standard which hangs in St. Paul's Cathedral.

IF I WERE YOUNG AGAIN

If I were young again and full of mirth,
There is no road that would not know my feet,
Jade depths of jungle, dark and blossoms-sweet.
As I would travel far, I would go where I might,
I would know ways of bird and wind and flower,
Sunrise and nightfall and the passionate sea.
Above my head no roof could ever be,
Save the sky. Hours in those hours of sleep,
I would behold each slowly breaking dawn
As though it were the last my eyes could know,
Dawn that would bring me on to stone
Like music out of silence. I would go,
Clinging to every hour lest it should waste,
If I were full of mirth and young again.

Daniel Whitehead Hicky.

Instead will be chanted plaintively under Section 14 of the Institute's Property Act.

"Ah, me, could thou and I with fate conspire
To grace this country's recipe dish,
Would we not shatter it to bits, and Then—then—"

Remove it nearer to the heart's desire!
To think that all of the poets only
One has thought the language worthy of mention who wrote:

"Twas my delight
To bark and bite!"

To bark and bite!"

The art of keeping young:

Recently a man said to a woman: "How beautiful you are!" And she replied: "Well, I ought to be, and I am."

There is such a thing as taking pride in the earning of one's wrinkles, and there is no beauty more gracious or serene than that of a contented old age.

To grow old without resentment and without undue regret is among the finest human achievements.

"No spring, no summer hath such
As I have seen in one autumnal face."

It is not in us to desire to look young as long as possible. Moralists are often inclined to under-estimate the moral effect of being trim and tidy in person. We need not grow old before we are old. We can be trim and tidy, look as slight as possible. But cosmetics are meant to conserve youth, not to disguise old age.

But the man who will not restore youth, as anyone may know who has observed the trade effect of an audience of elderly people, is under the impression that their year-paint is disfiguring their age. As a fact, no top-dressing could emphasize this effect more.

Women are generally rather equal in this respect. Those who do not resent a bit of aids as much as women do, because they consider themselves quite attractive enough without.

The secret of keeping young will depend largely on the lifting of the soul and never on the lifting of the face.

A good life holds the secret of perfect youth and vocation old or young.

One woman refused to allow the photographer to "touch up" her portrait because she was proud of her wrinkles. She had had many wrinkles, also did not want to be separated from her contemporaries, even in appearance. She wanted to grow old gracefully alongside those who had just had birth and died and entered the years.

Today we are determining how we shall look tomorrow. To live now without bitterness, jealousy, or meanness is the best recipe for being still young tomorrow and for being still young tomorrow and for advancing years and retain the fire of youth in your hearts and minds until the end.

So, if you are young, keep a youthful appearance for a time, but only a good conscience will guarantee a healthy old age.

"For in the veins the envious sons sons run in the envious sons
Who bears eternal summer in his soul."

KI-YI-YIPPI-II

With a bit blow more devastating than the sword of Damocles, one of the few enchanting mysteries left to us is the secret of how to keep our bearings.

She was a most remarkable woman, was unshakable and most admirable. She was almost with relief that Sandra discovered a King, not a Queen, in her. She was a widow, Lester Hale, son of a dead brother, was an absolute rose with a plausible manner. About him even the family were dubious.

Sandra used pink note paper with a gold edge!

King so, Mrs. Parmenter manages to draw a clear picture of the very real kindness of the Kings, even though it was often obscured by pettiness and anomalies. Her smile was unshakable and most admirable.

Such a suit is illustrated this week, and as will be observed, the costume is just as smart as it is practical. This is in style, but they will be found in other shapes in other shops elsewhere.

What One Girl Wore:
By Betty Brownie

A practical costume for the business girl during these between-season days is the short suit which requires a dress. It may be worn underneath a coat at the present time and when warmer days arrive it is a smart outfit.

With gesso, batikwork, work, a new starched and tear for Dad or if you are very ambitious, a brass cigarette box embellished with an etching of your own design, all these are but some of the things which many busy fingers are willing to execute for your fertile brain. If you but give them the chance.

Through the columns of The Tribune, each week, I shall open for you the door to a Treasure House of Ideas. You will find in the simple language, the various steps necessary to master the different branches of Applied Art, e.g., Fabric Painting, Batik, Embroidery, Quilting, Rug Hooking, Tinting of Photos and Greeting Cards, Renovation and Antiques, Care of Furniture, and on, and if I shall succeed in introducing novelties through the addition of a new, interesting profitable pastime. You're Brighter and Better
By Patricia McDevitt

In all of us lies dormant the desire to express ourselves through the medium of creative art, but in most of us this desire is smothered because we have been told that art is a divine gift with which only favored few are endowed.

This is undoubtedly true of all human beings, but not all who cannot with the exercise of a little patience and perseverance, turn the drabness of our everyday existence into something meriting loveliness and exotic beauty through the application of the Applied Arts.

That corner in your living room that seems to scream of its nakedness can be made a corner of mysterious interest, the walls decorated with painted screens, the glowing beauty of a tropical bird or the delicate colorings of a scene from the Far East. A trunk, a chair, a sofa, a small round hand against a background of black sateen, satin or emulated wood paneling, a glint of satisfaction to your heart, a time you contemplative your handwork.

A daintily empanelled set of shelves in your living room, a solid school holding perhaps a red piece of pottery, elegantly enameled in pastel tones, and decorated with a gay motif, gaily decorated cushions and runners, hand-painted pictures in frames decorated,

Council Held First

The council room took on a new appearance. The principal reason for this was the changing of the table from a north and south position to an east and west position.

"That's the reason why the change," Councillor Simpson, who occupies the chair at the end of the table opposite the Mayor, replied. "The new higher position of having a new viewpoint from which to see the future."

Mr. Cuthbert was re-appointed auditor and Savitor & Sissens were retained as solicitors.

Dr. Little was re-appointed medical health officer and Heslin, assistant to the secretary was re-employed at an increased in salary.

Councillor Simpson was appointed Deputy Mayor for the next three months.

The secretary submitted the financial report for January, which was approved.

Accounts to the value of $402.20 were passed for payment.

Councillor Patterson stated that he had been visited by L. C. Howard, president of the Peace River Boards of Trade Association, and during the visit had been shown the proposed route to the possible flooding of the road along Slave Lake again this spring, when under normal conditions, and the area can be looked for. Mr. Howard further stated that he thought the Grande Prairie council should do all it could to help keep the road in good condition so as to prepare for an emergency. The council agreed with the suggestion. "Star of Midnight" is based on the serial of the same title by the late Mrs. J. C. H. MacLean, and is written by starting in running down clues to the mystery. The two stars long established among readers of the magazine have joined together for the first time. Although these have worked at the same studio many times and often have played in the same picture, this is the first time that they have worked together in a separate film.

Madly Christians provides drama as the jealous sweetheart who shoots the traitor. Reginald Owen is inimitable as the smooth-talking, good-looking man.

A beautiful woman disappears, a newspaper columnist is killed under strange circumstances, and three different persons are seen to be connected with the case — each with a separate motive.

While not a musical, the picture has several big musical interludes.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward RKO opened the microphone for this intriguing mystery picture.
